

This week, _____ interviews the hero _____

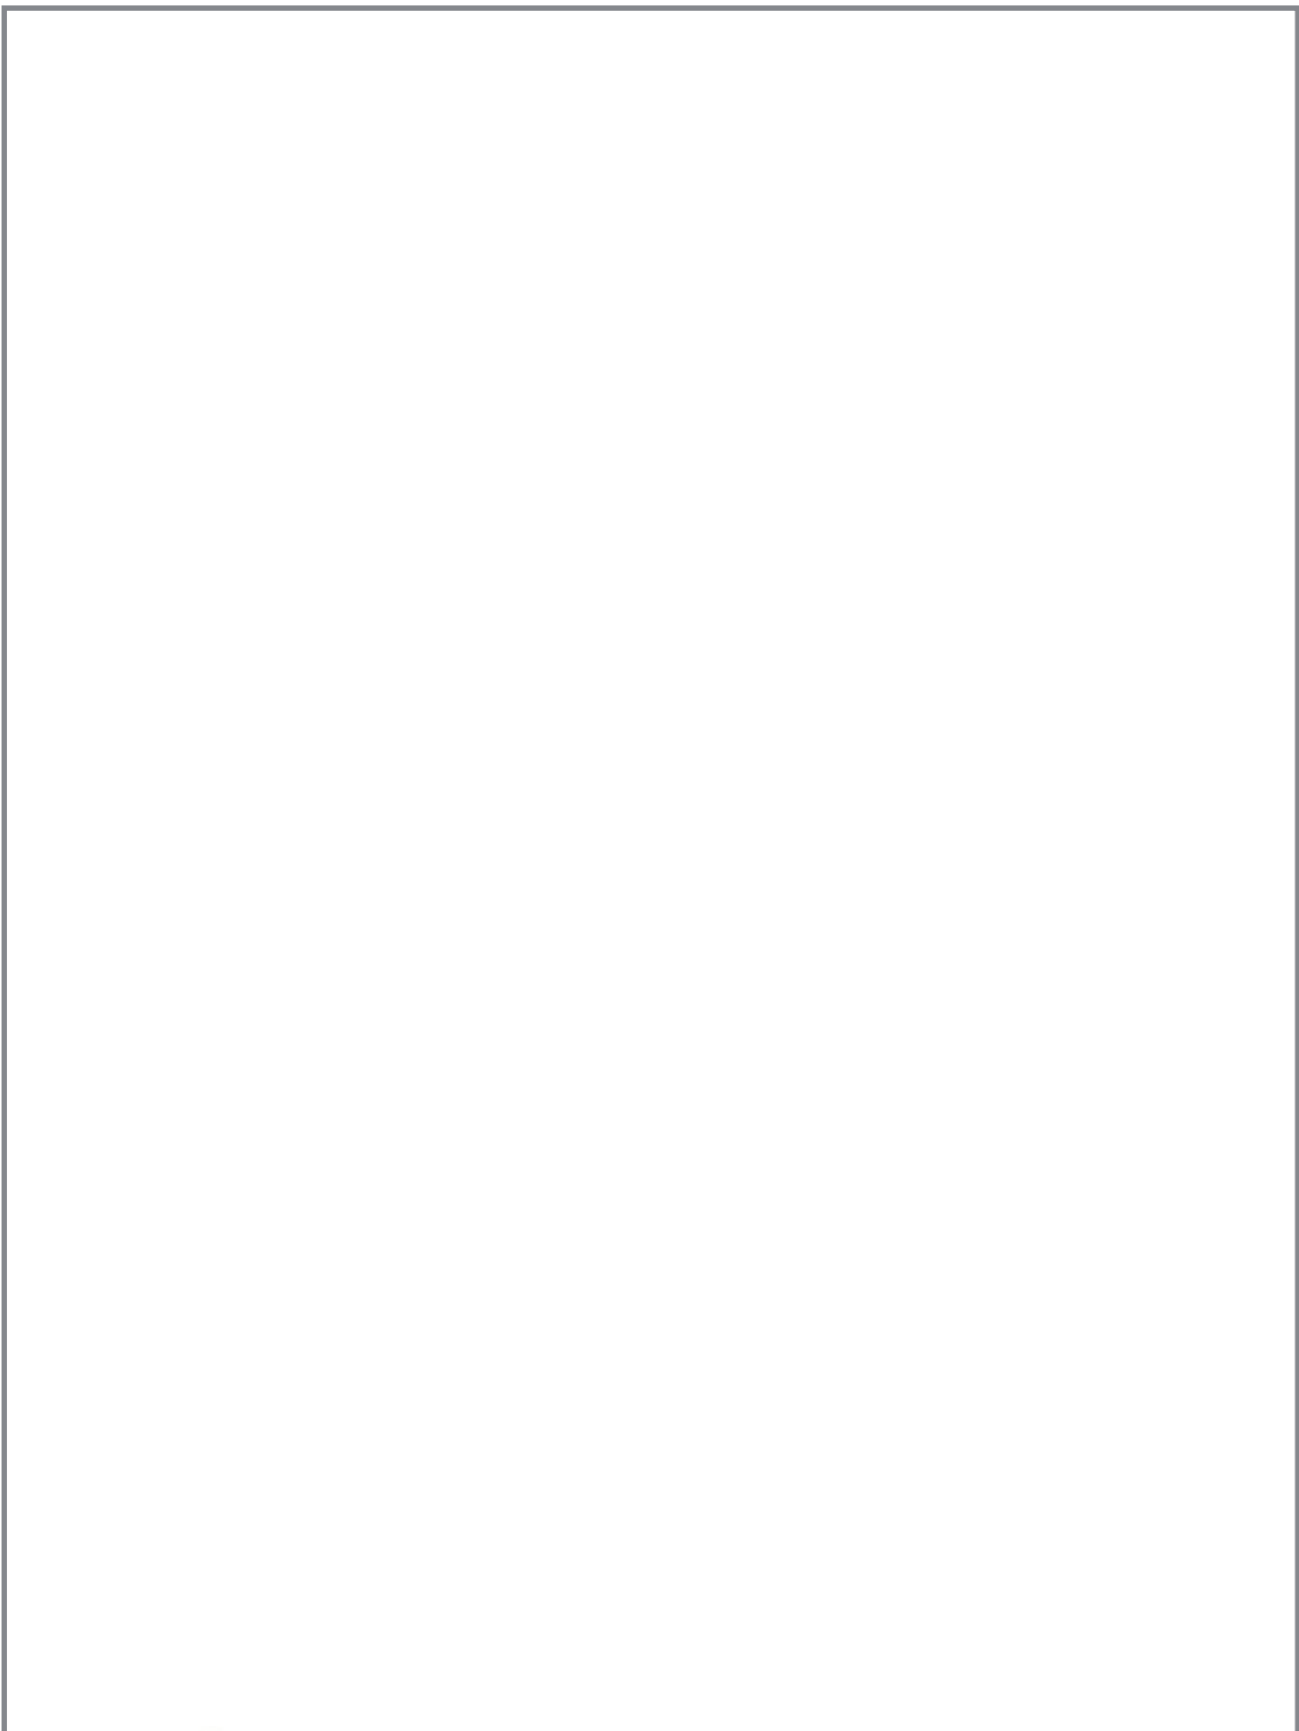

So what did you do exactly to earn the title, 'hero'?

What would you say were your best characteristics?

And what are your faults?

What things are most important to you?

What are your hopes for the future?

The Trojan Horse, Odysseus' finest plan

This week, Charlie interviews the hero Odysseus

So what did you do exactly to earn the title, 'hero'?
I'm not like your average hero. I mean, I'm not a great fighter like Achilles. But I came up with the idea for the Trojan Horse.

What would you say were your best characteristics?
I'm pretty smart and come up with some brilliant plans. Have I mentioned the Trojan Horse? We were fighting for TEN years until I came up with that plan. Then it was all over in one night.

And what are your faults?
I guess I can be a bit selfish, like the time I pretended I was mad to get out of going to the war in Troy. But is that really a fault? I was just trying to stay with my family.

What things are most important to you?
Definitely my home and my family - I'd do almost anything to get out of leaving them. But being honourable and helping my friends comes a close second.

What are your hopes for the future?
I want to stay and rule my home country and never go to war ever again.

