

Can you draw a line to connect the Latin word to its English meaning and then to an English word that comes from the Latin root? I've done one to show you how.

regere	peace	probation
pax	to rule over	pacify
victus/victa	leader	finale
finire	people	victimise
dux	honest	archduke
probus/proba	defeated	regulation
populus	to end/finish	populace

Sort the commands below and then translate them. The first one is done to show you how.

nolite lacrimare!

dormi!

noli currere!

surge!

in taberna
tacete!

nolite pugnare!

celeriter montem
ascendite!

canem
cura!

	singular	plural
command
prohibition (don't)		nolite lacrimare! – don't cry!

Add the Latin conjunction (et, sed, quod or itaque) that you feel best joins the two halves of the following sentences and then translate. I've done the first one for you.

canem matris amo itaque bene curo.

I love mum's dog so I look after it well.

magus dormiebat _____ male sentiebat.

fratres bene legunt _____ male scribunt.

familiam visitas _____ matrem salutas.

equus celeriter currit _____ numquam victus est.

Can you translate these sentences containing new vocabulary by using the gloss below? I've done the first one for you.

ridebamus quod in campo ludebamus.

We were laughing because we were playing in the field.

pavonem reginae audiebam.

"brassicam consumite!" clamat mater.

"noli murem vexare!" dicit frater.

nemo stylum invenit quod nemo quaerit.

new words

ludere to play

pavo peacock 🦚

brassica cabbage 🥬

mus mouse 🐭

stylus pen 🖋️